

Student Conference on Conservation Science

Brisbane, Australia
21 – 31 January 2013
The University of Queensland

SCCS Australia will bring together 100 post-graduate students from the Asia-Pacific region to develop skills and forge lasting professional relationships in this, the most biologically and culturally diverse region in the world.

Combining a 3 day conference, 3 days of field trips and sightseeing around Brisbane, and 4 days of training and workshops, SCCS Australia will provide students a unique and unforgettable experience that will help launch their careers in conservation science.

30 scholarships to cover the full cost of the attendance will be available and offered on the basis of merit and equity.

Call for abstracts opens: 29 June 2012
Applications close: 14 September 2012
Registration fee: AUD$120

www.sccs-aus.org for details and application form

SCCS is strengthening the careers of young conservation scientists around the world through events in Brisbane, Bangalore, Cambridge and New York.

twitter.com/sccs_au
facebook.com/SCCSAus
www.sccs-aus.org

supported by the Thomas
Foundation